k. The Office of Communications has begun video recording technical and operational training courses on the older systems and equipments being replaced through the Capitalization effort. The purpose of this is to archive the information for historical purposes, as well as have it available in a format which could easily be used as a training aid should the need arise.

l. The final screening of the 198 cubic feet of OSS records held by NARS has been completed. Agency representatives conducting the screening found a modest amount of material that required protection, mostly foreign government information, and it was marked appropriately. Guidance was also provided for review of OSS records yet to be accessioned. The screening of the remaining OSS records (approximately 2,800 cubic feet) will be done at the Agency Archives and Records Center (AARC).

m. The Archivist and Records Officer for the National Security Agency and several members of his staff visited OIS on 23 May to be briefed on the Agency's records management program. After the meeting, NSA and Agency representatives traveled to the Records Center [] for a briefing and tour of the facility.
